

BELIEVE “I.T.”, OR NOT...

...IT’S NOT HARD IF YOU’RE A WILLIS GRADUATE!

“Once again Willis graduates proved they can make it regardless of the challenges involved.” –

Imad Elzein, MCSE & CCNA, IT Consultant, Health Canada

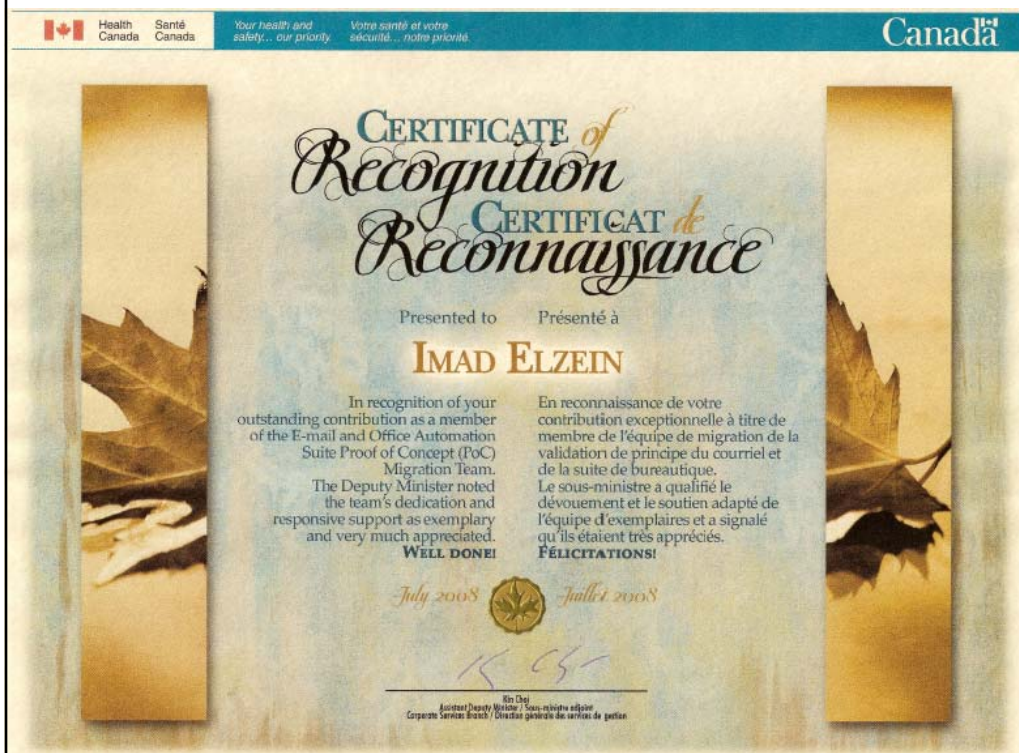

“In 2007 when I decided to enroll in the IT program at Willis College, I found it unique in providing students with hands-on and quality education, taught by experienced instructors who are professionals in their field.

In addition, I found the atmosphere is not only professional but gives the student an overall feeling of confidence and motivation. The program provided me with a solid knowledge of information technology and networks design and prepared me to excel in today's workplace as an IT professional.

After graduation, Willis College assisted me in getting a job opportunity with Health Canada where I got involved in working with teams of experts in the field of IT and networks to design, develop, migrate, deploy and test new systems and applications for the Deputy Health Minister office.

At an early stage the project was called a Proof Of Concept (POC) since the outcome was unknown and a sample of 50 users were selected to apply our design methodology to their PCs.

The knowledge, education, and experience I gained at Willis made me succeed in the POC project and my contributions along with the rest of the team released a $32 million dollars budget to implement nationwide the next phases for 13,000 users of Health Canada employees. As a result of my success in July 2008 the Deputy Health Minister of Canada recognized my outstanding effort as a member of the Email and Office Automation Suite Proof of Concept (POC) Migration Team and issued me a Certificate of Recognition for the hard work and dedication I made. – Thank you Willis“ –
